ABOUT THE ARTIST

Joost Benthem (b. 1978, Roermond, Netherlands) is a Dutch visual artist whose multidisciplinary practice explores the extraordinary potential of ordinary things.

Working across drawing, collage, sculpture, installation, and performance, Benthem has spent more than two decades transforming found objects and unconventional materials into unexpected images, objects, and experiences. From chewing gum, cigarette ash, cleaning products, and lipstick to packaging materials, earth, natural stone, and medicines, his materials retain their original identity while acquiring an entirely new one.

At the heart of his practice is TrashiQue, an ongoing exploration of value, perception, and transformation. Through subtle interventions and shifts in context, Benthem invites us to reconsider what we see, what we overlook, and what we consider worth keeping. His work moves freely between the poetic, the playful, and the provocative.

Benthem has exhibited in galleries, museums, and art spaces in the Netherlands and internationally, including Galerie Phoebus Rotterdam, Serieuze Zaken Amsterdam, and Museum Boijmans Van Beuningen. He was nominated for the Royal Award for Modern Painting (Koninklijke Prijs voor Vrije Schilderkunst), with his work exhibited at the Royal Palace in Amsterdam. Alongside his independent practice, he has created commissioned artworks and projects. His works are held in private collections in the Netherlands and abroad.

In 2025, Benthem initiated Infinite Ice Creams in his birthplace, Roermond, along the River Meuse. The ongoing series transforms found stones into recognisable images of ice creams through the simple addition of a wooden stick, leaving their natural forms unchanged. Each unique sculpture carries something of its place of origin, bringing together geological time, everyday culture, and a deceptively simple visual gesture.

Benthem currently lives and works in the Netherlands.
